The Mid-West Bank

(A REAL Farmers' Bank)

County Agent's Field Notes

BY C. R. YOUNG.

After a couple of months of complete quietness, cholera has again broken out in the herd of George Hayes, near Hubbard. He promptly vaccinated the entire lot of 170 and it is hoped that it may not spread.

Mr. Hayes says that he had the disease last year so that it has undoubtedly been lurking about the yards. Persons having had cholera on their farms should lose no time in cleaning and disinfecting all sheds, wallows, troughs, fountains, feeders and so forth.

Arrangements were made during the week to put the regular extension sewing club work in the prescribed course for girls at the convent for girls at Jackson. It is thought that the cooking club work may also be added this year.

Prof. J. F. Hendricks of the farm management department of the state university was in the county last Friday, returning reports to farmers who have been keeping dairies under the direction of that department. Mr. Hendricks is working out a new and much more simple system of keeping records which should appeal to every farmer. Persons desiring to cooperate in this work should write Mr. Hendricks, or the county agent.

At this season of the year, many boys and girls are thinking of starting to college. With some, war conditions may be a factor in deciding what to do. Wherever possible, it will be best to attend. A crisis has always called for trained men and women and far more positions are now open to college men and women than can be filled. Catalogues for the college and school of agriculture may be secured from the county agent.

During a severe electrical storm last Thursday morning the barn at the Julius Giese place was struck by lightning. A team of work horses in the barn at the time was killed by the bolt, while a mare and her colt and a yearling horse escaped unhurt. Members of the family were up at the time and by quick work saved the three horses that were left, also the harness and buggy, the barn by that time being a mass of flames. The alarm had been sounded in the meantime and the volunteer firemen soon had a stream of water on the fire, confining it to the one building, which burned like tinder. Mr. Giese carried $400 insurance on the barn, which was valued at nearly twice that amount. His son, Henry Giese, owned the horses, which he valued at $400, also a quantity of hay stored in the barn which, with the horses was a total loss, as he carried no insurance.

M. E. Church Notes.

F. J. AUCCOCK, Pastor.

Regular services will be resumed next Sunday when the pastor will preach at both services. The vacation so kindly given to the pastor has been very beneficial and greatly enjoyed. Most of the time has been spent in the harvest field, and many thoughts have come to mind as the grain has been cut and shocked. Why do we look for a harvest as we plow and sow and cultivate? Why do we so rarely expect a harvest in our work for the Savior? Shall we make next year a harvest year? If every member will join hands and heart with the pastor and then follow out the teaching of the Bible, the harvest will surely come.

An Entire Change in "The Midway" at Nebraska State Fair

Plenty of good clean rides, such as "The Whip," Ferris Wheel, Carry-Us-All, Monkey Speedway, Honeymoon Trail and many others.

The Carl Hagenbeck Menagerie will be located on The Midway, where you will have the advantage of seeing all the animals in captivity for a very reasonable admission. This menagerie will be open continuously and gives you the opportunity to spend as much time with the animals as you may desire. Do not overlook this educational part of the state fair, September 3-7.

Poultry Show Growing in Popularity

The poultry exhibit to be held at the Nebraska State Fair, September 2-7, is one exhibit which has demanded the attention of the management this coming year more so than in the past. Mr. C. G. Cottle of Edgar has been appointed as superintendent, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made the exhibit will be placed in uniform coops, under his genial management. In this way the fowls can be shown to their best advantage and the American hen given the recognition she so much deserves.
